

The Miami Music Project Website goes Live!

March 2nd 2009 – Today the Miami Music Project announced the launch of its website.

The website will serve to keep stakeholders updated on the organizations activities, advertise the upcoming auditions for the Miami Music Project and to keep the general public informed of upcoming events.

Executive Director Richard Harris said, “The Miami Music Project website is an absolutely integral part of the organizations activities. We are involved in the development of a web-based music composition tool for the students who we will reach through the program.”

The software was originally developed for the BBC website and it allows students with little or no musical background to begin composing music. When finished, the software will be available through the Miami Music Project website for children in the program to compose at any time that they feel inspired.

Harris added, “This is just one way that the Miami Music Project is looking to use dynamic and innovative techniques to enrich the lives of Miami-Dade students through classical music.”

The Miami Music Project is the winner of a $1,000,000.00 Challenge Grant by the Knight Foundation as part of the Foundations Knight Arts Challenge. In January 2009 the Arsht Center offered free office space to MMP where the company offices are currently located. Auditions for the Miami Music Project Ensemble are scheduled in Miami in May 2009.

Please visit www.miamimusicproject.org for more information about the project.